

SPONSORED BY THE

2nd Roundtable Forced Migration Studies on “Research-policy Relations in the Context of (Forced) Migration”

We cordially invite researchers from all disciplines and institutions (universities, universities of applied sciences, non-university research institutions, think tanks) as well as practitioners and experts from NGOs, associations, policy, etc. to our Second Roundtable on (Forced) Migration Studies. This roundtable will focus on research-policy relations in the context of (forced) migration.

What role does science play in advising policy-makers and practitioners? What challenges are there at the interface between science and policy-making? What are the corresponding experiences and challenges of experts from the field?

The thematic focus is one of the results of the first roundtable, which can be accessed online (documentation report). The aim is to bring together Bonn's experts on this challenging topic and provide a platform for experience exchange and collegial advice.

To attend the event, please register via this event poll by December 1, 2023:
<https://terminplaner6.dfn.de/b/9ac3dddf41feb8223a71cob3b3a04840-461649>

Please feel free to share this invitation with colleagues who might be interested in the roundtable!

You will receive the program for the roundtable in due time after the deadline and before the event.

If you have any questions, please contact us.

Kind regards,

Maarit Thiem, BICC (Bonn International Centre for Conflict Studies), FFVT Coordinator
Dr. Lena Laube & Dr. des. Maria Ullrich, Forum Internationale Wissenschaft (FIW), University of Bonn
Dr. Sandra Gilgan, University of Bonn